

FRESH NEW HOME PLANS

If you come to Nexton, you may notice new home plans sprouting up in our Midtown, North Creek and Del Webb neighborhoods. Like David Weekley's Brentwood plan, which is a traditional-meets-modern home in Midtown that includes a spacious kitchen and sunny sitting area. Or The Wade by True Homes, which resides in North Creek and is all about open space, from the open living area to the open upstairs loft to the open-concept dining room that leads to the ... you guessed it ... open kitchen. (FYI: they also just launched a new model row, too.) And then there's Del Webb, our 55+ neighborhood where all of the plans are new. Of course, these are just a few of the plans that have popped up at Nexton, but there's only so much room to talk about them here. Want to learn more? There's a blog for that.

A LITTLE SPRING READING

SIP, SIP, HOORAY

The Co-op is coming to The Hub this spring. And if you've been to one of their other locations (including the original on Sullivan's Island), then you know it's equal parts gourmet deli and gathering spot. With sandwiches (for breakfast, lunch & dinner), salads, and frose (that's frozen rosé for those not familiar with the irresistibly refreshing concoction). Cheers!

FROSE ALL DAY

HEAR THAT? IT'S SOUNDS ON THE SQUARE.

Looking for one more reason that makes Nexton a great place to live? How about the Sounds on the Square Concert Series? On the first Friday of March through July, a variety of local bands grace Nexton Square with their popular presence, and put on free concerts from 5pm to 8pm. Ready to rock (or roll?) and take advantage of the restaurants and shops surrounding the square? Just bring a chair or blanket and join us for a night of eating, drinking and being (musically) merry.

BYOBLANKET

Next-level your Nexton knowledge.

Scroll through our latest community brochure for in-depth stories about life at Nexton. From our favorite restaurants to how we're helping the planet.

BE A NEXPERT >